

HENRY WARD BEECHER

GIVES HIS VIEWS AS TO ENGLISH AFFAIRS.

And Speaking With the Frankness of His Nature, Tells Just What He Knows.

New York, November 5.—The Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, who has just returned from his visit to England, twenty-three years ago, he said: "The contrast between the attitude of England and then and now toward America was striking. Then England was a public enemy against the United States. The large factory population of Lancashire, although suffering from famine for want of our cotton, sympathized with us in our struggle, but the influential people of Great Britain not only were opposed to the cotton famine, but to a very great extent supported the South. That has now been so changed that it may be said that there has been a complete revolution in the thought of the people in that respect. I think that this has been largely brought about by the increase of travel between the two countries, enabling us to get better acquainted with each other. Then, also, the immense tide of immigration to the United States has bound the populations of the two countries together in the most intimate ties. Any allusion in my public addresses to the ties of kindred between the two nations, to the bond of respect and affection that bound us together as one people, never failed to excite the loudest and most enthusiastic applause."

"As to the political and social condition of the English people, Mr. Beecher said: "The answer to that is found in what is at the foundation of all material prosperity—namely, the land. In the relation of the people to the land, great and fundamental changes are going on that are affecting their condition from the top to the bottom, and which will also affect their political condition. For example: land owners, who formerly would obtain £7 to £8 per acre for the rent of their land, are glad to rent it for 30 shillings, and sometimes cannot get that. The consequence is that the owners of the land, instead of renting it to farmers, to middlemen, or to their stewards, are farming the lands under their own direction and are selling the produce direct, either to the retail dealer or to the consumer. Facts of this character have force upon the public mind. Questions in relation to land tenure, to the law of entail and primogeniture, that hitherto have aided in the impoverishment of a landed and privileged class accustomed to separate itself to a very great degree socially from the bulk of the people. Then I noticed that there is a growing discontent in regard to the public schools, or board schools, as they are called in England. It is true that these schools give a free education, but it is doing out more or less as a charity. This is partly owing to the position of the Established Church, which has interfered considerably with the development of a public school system like that we are familiar with here. There is a disposition on the part of the English people to put the education of their children on the same footing as we have it—that is, that it shall be a right and not a charity."

"A few words about Ireland, Mr. Beecher said: "My convictions as to what Ireland ought to have are not changed in any essential respect by my visit. While I was there I heard a great deal about Ireland, and I visited some portions of the country. Ireland will obtain home rule, and she ought to have it. I mean by that a government that shall resemble that of our State government. I do not think that she ought to be separated from the mother country. Any dismemberment of Ireland from her relation to the Imperial Government would result with as much fervor and determination as I related the secession of South Carolina. I think, however, that this principle of local government will be as eagerly sought by the English, Scotch and the Welsh people as it has been by the Irish, and while the Englishmen may get it first, the other portions of the family of Great Britain will not be without the same privileges very long. The Irish people expect to obtain very soon manhood suffrage and this, with the disestablishment of the Church of England, will bring about great social and political changes. I think the disestablishment of the church is in the near future, and while I regard the Church of England as the most aggressive and the most zealous of all the denominations of the world, I think that Ireland, I think that she would be greatly strengthened for good by this separation. Every agency that can possibly elevate the people in their moral and religious relations ought to have free course. When I looked at the population of London and caught a glimpse, now and then, of the lower strata, I was lost in such amazement that I was almost dazed. There is a large population there of which we have no type here—men whose fathers and mothers were evidently starved, and whose children have grown up starved, whose lives are of the most tentative kind whose existence is not only a struggle, but a perpetual fight with famine. I was, therefore, not surprised to hear a lady say, who sat next to me when I was breakfasting with the Dean of Westminster and his wife: "Mr. Beecher, we do not pretend to teach in some of our mission churches and schools anything like the higher principles of religion. All that we can do with a great number of these who attend, is to teach them what cleanliness and honesty is."

Now we have no such population as that here. The Salvation Army is doing great good, I believe, among that lower strata of the population in England."

Scott's Emulsion. Of pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is a most valuable remedy for consumption, scrofula, wasting diseases of children, colds and chronic coughs, and in all conditions where there is a loss of flesh, a lack of nerve power and a general debility of the system.

Harvard's Birthday.

Boston, Mass., November 5.—The celebration in commemoration of the foundation of Harvard College began at noon today. The day's exercises were confined to the meeting of Harvard School. A business session was held at 12 o'clock. At this conclusion a procession of members of the Association and invited guests marched to Sanders Theatre, where Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., delivered a masterly oration. After the literary exercises the procession returned and marched to the gymnasium, where a banquet was spread. Tomorrow is set apart for undergraduates. There will be a scratch race, literary exercises, a game of football between Harvard and Wesleyan, torchlight procession and fireworks.

SENECA, S. C.

THE PLACE FOR INVALIDS THREATENED

With Phthisis—Statement of a Physician of Experience—The Advantages of the Piedmont Belt.

To the Editors of the Appeal:

I send you the inclosed letter for publication. Dr. Doyle is a practicing physician of long experience and large practice, an ardent student, a laborious worker, a Christian gentleman of wealth and culture. The letter is a private one, but I thought it would be a public benefit to spread it before your readers, and do so without consulting him. Yours, etc.,

JAMES L. MARTIN.

Dr. Doyle's Letter.

SENECA, S. C., October 25, 1886.

Rev. J. L. Martin, D. D.

My DEAR SIR—I hope you will excuse the delay on my part in not writing to you sooner with reference to the adaptability of this section to persons of weak lungs—or who are threatened with phthisis. I thought I could send you some literature on the subject, but it has been misplaced, so that I have not been able, as yet, to send you any printed matter, on what might be called the hygienic influence of our atmosphere and climate. Dr. Gatchel, a celebrated specialist on diseases of the lungs, wrote some able articles on the chorography of this "Piedmont Belt." This section, immediately south of the Blue Ridge, varies in altitude from one to two thousand feet. The face of the country varying from undulating to precipitous, as you know, which gives most thorough drainage. Our elevation gives us cool nights during the summer season, and our proximity to the Blue Ridge protects us from much of the chilling effect of the northwesterly winds. But the great advantage to weak lungs, I think, is dependent upon the dryness of our atmosphere. That has been demonstrated beyond a doubt—that our atmosphere has much less moisture than prevails either north or south of us. Neither are the changes of temperature so great here as farther south, or across the Blue Ridge. But a crowning argument, and which I think worth more than all things else, when taken separate from others, is that it is extremely rare for a native of this section to die of consumption. In a population of 12,000 or 14,000 (Oconee county) I doubt if there is one person in a year that dies of consumption. Persons who come here before there is breaking down of tissue (abscess or suppuration) generally improve in health and strength, forgetting that they have ever feared bad health. It is true that they need some medical supervision, especially during the first part of their residence. Some persons have such a conformation of the organs of circulation and respiration (want of equilibrium) as to make it best for them to have a higher or lower altitude for a residence, to secure a greater or less atmospheric pressure, according to whether the heart is too strong or too weak for the condition of the lungs.

But, as stated above, we have these different altitudes. In a distance of forty miles we can get any altitude we desire, from 600 feet to 400 feet above the sea.

O. M. DOYLE.

HENRIETTA LENOX'S WILL.
She Bequeaths the Greater Portion of $10,000,000 to the Presbyterian Church.

New York, November 5.—The will of the late Henrietta Lenox was offered for probate today. It disposes of property valued at over $10,000,000. After giving the bulk of the fortune to relatives, she makes the following bequests: To the Lenox Library, a piece of land in Mills street and $100,000; to the Board of Foreign Missions and the Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America, $50,000 each; the American Bible Society, $25,000; the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, $25,000; the Presbyterian Board of Relief for Disabled Ministers and the Widows and Orphans of Deceased Ministers, Trustees of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America for the establishment of the Presbyterian Committee of Missions for Freedmen, William Paxton D. D., to be used by him for the benefit of the poor of the First Presbyterian Church of New York, $100,000 each; and to the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor $5,000. The will was executed July 29th, 1881. Miss Lenox died July 6th and the delay in offering the will for probate was done in the hope of preventing a contest. This failed and probate has been entered by William Banks, James Lenox Banks, and Henry Lenox Banks. Three hours contest the will on the ground that Miss Lenox was not of sound mind when she wrote the codicil. Isabella R. Satterthwaite also objects to the codicil of April 27, 1885.

THE CHICAGO BEEF MEN.

STILL INSISTING ON THE EIGHT HOUR DAY.

Cause an Arm'd Force to Be Deputized, in Order to Quell Anticipated Difficulties.

CHICAGO, ILL., November 5.—In accordance with the order of Master Workman Butler 1500 of the beef killers employed in Armour's packing house joined the strikers already out in making demand that their employers should re-establish the eight hour working day. About 200 men remained at work at Armour's beef department, and that house is killing a few cattle, as usual, this morning. The porkmen are all at work as usual. It is stated that a force of Pinkerton guards will arrive at the yards during the day. Information from the stock yards of a reliable character indicate that all the pork men will be ordered out by the Knights of Labor, thus renewing the strike for eight hours in all its former proportions, throwing between 20,000 and 25,000 men out of employment.

INDUCING ARMOUR'S MEN TO STRIKE.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon the men employed in the pork packing houses were still at work. The striking beef men were endeavoring to induce the 200 men who are still at Armour's, and who refused to join the others in quit log yards, to come out. One hundred and fifty Pinkerton guards went to the yards at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

DEPUTIES SWORN IN.

Two hundred and fifty men were sworn in as deputies by the Sheriff this afternoon, and will be started for the stock yards at 4 o'clock this afternoon. It was represented to the Sheriff that the situation required the presence of an armed force to preserve order, and calls were made on Sheriff Hancock to summon a posse and have it in readiness for speedy transportation to Packingtown. Supervisor Standish, of the town of Lakeview, was among those who first asked for this protection. The men are armed with clubs and revolvers. Great care was exercised in the selection of these men. Said a deputy: "These men had to qualify before they were taken. They are all veterans and veterans know where they live and all about them; they are neither scoundrels nor loafers, but picked men, and we can rely upon them every time." "Are Pinkerton's men included among them?" "No, sir."

THE ARKANSAS BAPTISTS.

In Convention at Forrest City, Discuss Woman's Work and the Brazilian Mission.

(CORRESPONDENCE OF THE APPEAL.)

FORREST CITY, ARK., November 4.—The annual convention of Arkansas Baptists met at the Baptist Church today. It was initiated by devotional exercises, presided over by the Rev. R. J. Coleman, of Cabot, Ark. After these the convention was called to order by last year's president, J. P. Eagle, of Lonoke. The attendance of delegates was large and several prominent visitors from other States were present. The Rev. J. B. Ray, editor of the Baptist Flag, represented Missouri, and Dr. Frederick Howard, of the True Baptist, was present from Tennessee, and Missionary Bagby, from Brazil, South America.

The Rev. M. D. Early was instructed to cast the vote of the convention for J. P. Eagle, president, and John G. Holland, secretary. Other officers were elected.

On motion two new standing committees were ordered to be appointed, one on Home Missions, the other on Women's Work. The regular committees were announced by the Chair, and business will open in brisk earnest in the morning.

The convention sermon will be preached tonight by appointment, by the Rev. A. B. Miller, of Little Rock, to be followed in a speech on Brazilian Missions by Bagby.

Delegates continue to arrive on every train.

Sore Eyes

The eyes are always in sympathy with the body, and afford an excellent index of its condition. When the eyes become weak, and the lids inflamed and sore, it is an evidence that the system has become disordered by Scrofula, for which Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best known remedy.

Cured.

Scrofula, which produced a painful inflammation in my eyes, caused me much suffering for many years. I was cured by a physician. I commenced taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using this medicine a short time, I was completely

My eyes are now in a splendid condition, and I am as well and strong as ever.—Mrs. William Gaze, Concord, N. H.

For a number of years I was troubled with a humor in my eyes, and was unable to obtain any relief until I commenced taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine has effected a complete cure, and I believe it to be the best of blood purifiers.—C. E. Utton, Nashua, N. H.

From childhood, and until within a few months, I have been afflicted with Weak and Sore Eyes. I have used many remedies, but with no success. I was cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and consider it a great blood purifier.—Mrs. C. Phillips, Dover, Vt.

I suffered for a year with inflammation in my left eye. Three ulcers formed on the ball, depriving me of sight, and causing great pain. After trying many remedies, to no purpose, I was finally induced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and three bottles of this medicine, have been entirely cured. My sight has been restored, and there is no sign of inflammation, sore, or ulcer in my eye.—Kendall T. Bewas, Sugar Tree Ridge, Ohio.

My daughter, ten years old, was afflicted with Scrofulous Sore Eyes. During the last year she never opened her eyes. Physicians of the highest standing exerted their skill, but with no permanent success. On the recommendation of a friend I purchased a bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which my daughter commenced taking. In a few days she had the third bottle her sight was restored, and she can now look steadily at a bright light without pain. Scrofula is cured only by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, Evansville, Shelby City, Ky.

Old Stand, No. 9 Union St., Memphis.

About twenty years ago I discovered a little sore on my cheek, and the doctors pronounced it cancer. I have tried a number of physicians, but without receiving any permanent benefit. Among the number were one or two specialists. The medicine they applied was like fire to the sore, causing intense pain. I saw a statement in the papers telling what S. S. S. had done for others similarly afflicted. I procured some at once. Before I had used the second bottle the neighbors could notice that my cancer was healing up. My general health had been bad for two or three years—I had a hacking cough and spit blood continually. I had a severe pain in my breast. After taking six bottles of S. S. S. my cough left me and I grew stronger than I had been for several years. My cancer has healed over all but a little spot about the size of a half dime, and it is rapidly disappearing. I would advise every one with cancer to give S. S. S. a fair trial.
